ROLE OF CPRS

The Certified Peer Recovery Specialist (CPRS) is designed for individuals with personal, lived experience in their own recovery or experience as a family member or loved one. Peer support services are an important component in a recovery oriented systems of care. By offering insight into the recovery process based on their own experience, peers are able to provide a unique perspective to those with similar life issues.

The role of the CPRS reflects a collaborative and strengths-based approach, with the primary goal being to assist individuals and family members in achieving sustained recovery from the effects of addiction and/or mental health issues. CPRSs are not clinicians; they serve in a supportive role within the community and/or treatment setting. They do not replace other professional services; they complement the existing array of support services. The peer is not a sponsor, case manager or a therapist but rather a role model, mentor, advocate and motivator. Services provided by the CPRS are a permanent critical component of the continuum of care services that will substantially improve an individual's ability to sustain recovery and wellness.

The primary function of the CPRS is to provide individuals and family members in recovery with a support system to develop and learn healthy skills and gain access to needed community resources. CPRSs serve people in the recovery process by supporting them in accessing community-based resources, implementing self-directed recovery/wellness plans and navigating state and local systems (including addiction and mental health treatment systems). They encourage individuals to develop a strong foundation in recovery (e.g. establishing support systems, self-care, independence/self-sufficiency, healthy coping skills) that support long-term wellness and recovery.
